Fourth Sunday of Lent

MESSAGE FROM THE PRINCIPAL

Students are enjoying the sunshine and fresh air this week. Everyone is anxious for Spring and change in the weather. Not one has mentioned the thought of another snow day, I think they would much rather have the nice weather after such a long winter. The students were able to enjoy a long weekend having Friday off. The teachers attended a full day of in-service. In the morning a representative from the ACLD Learning Center presented information obtaining to student academic learning disabilities that they may be presented with in the classroom. Teachers were offered advice, strategies, and interventions that will be helpful. In the afternoon, our Kindergarten teacher, Barbara Bond presented information related to Sensory Processing Disorder, sharing what she compiled from a recent seminar, again offering helpful information to our teachers. We are still gathering pictures of St. Patrick School events, groups, and classes from the past. Please drop any off at the school or administration building, we will make sure and return them.

Love and prayers,

Cindy Lacko

Today I am allowed to wear my pink vestment. When I was young and had red hair my mother did not want me to wear pink or red because she said that it would clash with my red hair. Well, I guess I don't have to worry about that anymore. By the way, when I came here to St. Patrick in Hubbard almost 18 years ago I did have red hair. I've been wondering every since what happened. It must be the water.

Getting back to the pink vestment. Why wear this color only twice in the Church calendar year? Well, pink is a sign of happiness, joy, and celebration. When we are half way through Lent and Advent, we stop and rejoice because the feasts of Easter and Christmas are near.

God, our all loving and caring Father, thank you for everything that you have ever given to us, but most especially Your Son and our Lord and Savior whose Resurrection we will all celebrate together in three short weeks.

Amen.

Your loving pastor,
Fr. Tim
